

Online, Hybrid and Web-enhanced Courses

Teaching in Canvas Learning Management System will require one or more of these requirements that are listed below.

1 – If you have received training from Etudes, (Blackboard, or other LMS with pedagogy) you will only need to attend any of the campus training session in/or Canvas certificate from www.onefortraining.org. You may choose attend any other training at other institutions where the trainer is Canvas certified.

The key to this training will be to establish “proficiency” in the Canvas LMS, as per the AFT contract agreement. Upon completion of your course, you must submit your certificate showing proficiency to your department chair, and forward a copy to the Distance Education Coordinator or his/her designee showing completion of proficiency in Canvas.

2– Any instructor who has not taught in Etudes, Blackboard, or any other LMS where pedagogy instruction was part of the training, must attend a pedagogy course before attending any Canvas training. Any pedagogy course may be obtained from @one, or any college offering an online course with a pedagogy component. You then must also take a Canvas course to show proficiency in Canvas. Remember, a pedagogy course must be taken before or after a Canvas course, and must be certified before teaching any online, hybrid or web-enhanced course.

Instructors, who wish to use Canvas as a web-enhanced site for your traditional class, must follow steps 1 and 2. Canvas and the campus will not provide a pedagogy course in any online training with Canvas. Therefore, it must be obtained from another source.

Web-enhanced courses

Requesting a Canvas site will require you to complete a registration form designed to identify you, the course and section numbers you wish for a Canvas site. The form will require a division chair approval and will have a deadline date for submission. No requests will be accepted after a posted deadline date. Missing the established deadline date will keep you from obtaining a Canvas site just for that semester. This process is necessary to provide any online support for students and faculty who are using a web-enhanced format. The form is currently in a development stage, and will be available after the Fall 17 semester.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact me at x4068, or email me at reidmr@lahc.edu, or reidmr@faculty.laccd.edu